DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1, 3-10, and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 1, lines 8-9, the recitation "mounting portion defines at least one circumferential recess" is vague and indefinite since applicant has inferentially claimed that the mounting portion has a circumference or is of circular, or cylindrical shape. It is not clear whether such "circumferential recess" encompasses such limitation of the mounting portion as being of some sort of circular or cylindrical shape. Applicant has not define that the mounting portion has a circumference.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 3-5, 8-10, 12-15, 17, and 32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Tontarelli (US patent no. 4,750,697). Tontarelli discloses an apparatus capable of hanging medical device comprising all of the claimed features of applicant's invention as illustrated below and wherein the mounting portion is molded (col. 2, lines 18-19).

regarding claims 9 and 10, since applicant's preamble of claim 1 sets forth an intended use of a medical device, the type of medical device described in claims 9 and 10 which depends from claim 1 is also consider an intended use medical device. Tontarellis device is capable of hanging medical device such as those recited in claims 9 and 10. Applicant is reminded that a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim.

Regarding claim 32, Tontarelli discloses medical device (H), handle (2) coupled to the medical device having one aperture (2a, figure 1), a hanger with a mounting portion (1a) coupled to the shaft and handle and a hook portion (1) wherein the hanger is pivotable with respect to the handle and a portion of the hook portion (1a) extends into aperture (2a) in the handle in the retracted position.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 6, 18-19, and 21-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tontarelli (US patent no. 4,750,697) in view of Kinsel (US patent no. 6,651,941). Tontarelli discloses all the claimed features of applicant's invention except for plurality of hangers and providing a flexible shaft. To mounting device via plurality of hangers are known in the art as demonstrated by Kinsel for additional support. Kinsel further teaches providing the hanger with a flexible shaft (36). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skilled in the art have provided a plurality of hangers to Tontarelli's assembly for additional support as taught by Kinsel. Such modification would have involved a mere duplication of parts. Further, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the hook assembly of Tontarelli by making the mounting portion (2) and hook (1) of one piece where the shaft is flexible to provide the necessary rotation as taught by Kinsel. Such modification have the well-known advantage of simplifying manufacture of such hook assembly. Regarding claim 19, Tontarelli's hanger rotating about the bar or surface (10) of the medical device inherently limits rotation of the hook portions by way of the inherent friction of the mounting portion contacting the bar (10).

Applicant's arguments with respect to pending claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The cited art of record demonstrate various rotatable hooks.
